

Provocateur: Systemic Change Leadership To Address The World's Biggest Problems

Systems change has become the slogan for all related to the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Governments, companies, non-profits, and social economy enterprises grapple with the dilemmas presented by disruptions caused by emerging technologies, demographic shifts, and changing societal norms while addressing poverty, climate change, and food insecurity. But without a strong leadership framework that moves the needle on many issue areas, the race to win against these disruptions could lead to conformism but not transformation, relief but not release.

Based on her book: Provocateurs not Philanthropists: Turning Good Intentions into Global Impact (Changemakers Books: 2022) Maiden Manzanal-Frank's presentation will focus on the potential and benefits of Provocateur leading the way toward real systemic change. Using storytelling and from her extensive experience growing purpose-driven organizations in 15 countries, the audience will learn how to use the 5Ps: Passion, Purpose, Provision, Practice, and Paradigm of Provocateurs to start their practice now.

Key Takeaways:

- Recognize the characteristics and perspectives of a Provocateur Leader to address the world's biggest problems
- Reframe the current paradigms that must shift now because doing the same things and expecting different results account for self-sabotage
- Identify their own Provocateur journey to improve critical leadership behaviors in their organizations
- Begin to practice the 5Ps of the Provocateur to start effecting change right now.

The Strategic Mindset of Twenty-First Century Organizational Leaders: Weaving Disruptions into your Strategy

Regenerative AI is now upon us. Yet, most purpose-centered organizations fail to integrate these emerging technologies into their business strategies. To navigate this and other large-wave disruptions, leaders need to build in their own toolboxes to understand the risks, challenges, and benefits of these disruptions and envision new possibilities to grow their missions, extend their influence, and enlarge their impacts beyond their wildest imagination.

Maiden Manzanal-Frank consulting work with dozens of organizations and her personal experience as a Board Member, Director, staff, and consultant on strategy for more than 10 years will inspire and reinvigorate your appreciation for strategic work that will increase your organizational competencies to manage change and complexity, including your leadership capacity as an executive.

Key Takeaways:

- Develop a strategy mindset to tackle disruptions empowering yourself and enabling effective solutions
- A practical framework to bring a strategic mindset in circumstances and events beyond your control in your organization and communities
- Steps to release fear and embrace the messiness of the strategic process to let growth and breakthroughs happen.

Change You Can Believe: Five Powerful Strategies to Alignment and Coherence

Resistance and objections are all part of any change dynamic. Small or big, change is frightening to most individuals, but to organizations, a failure to bring about the full benefits of change will produce lackluster results and more division and polarization. This is very catastrophic for purpose-driven organizations that are already stressed with limited resources, dated and unsupportive policy regimes, and large-wave disruptions.

This presentation will focus on five winning strategies to move your organizations towards catalytic social impact by harnessing the power of community-building that reimagines the process as traveling together as opposed to the pull-push, zero-sum equation. Using her consulting experience with more than a dozen purpose-driven organizations who embarked on strategic change and coaching change-makers around the world, prepare to reframe how you're approaching changes in your organizations to thrive in the business of impact.

Key Takeaways:

- An inspired perspective on why believing that change starts with you is the first step of the process
- Identify the three areas where to leverage change to accelerate results
- Address opposition, resistance, and diversion temptations effectively
- Begin to practice the five strategies to achieve the transformation you set out to accomplish

Build Your Legacy Now as a Changemaker

One of Maiden Manzanal-Frank book's (Provocateurs not Philanthropists: Turning Good Intentions into Global Impact) premises is that legacy is not something you leave behind, but something you create and live now. Legacy building is for any age, in any level of accomplishment, at any stage of life and career. Truly great individuals prioritize building legacies that matter for generations to come. Whether you are a Baby boomer, Gen X, Y, or millennial, you have the golden opportunity to take back your life, own your game, and elevate your impact for a better world.

Maiden's journey from an immigrant in the Philippines with two suitcases and no contacts, connections, networks, and prospects for a job to a thriving speaking, consulting, coaching, and authorship business will get you inspired and challenged to take a solid step to make a positive impact now. If she can do it, you can do too. You can be an architect of a life that's satisfying, impactful, and joyfully giving baked into your everyday practice.

Key Takeaways:

- Discover the urgency of legacy building
- Explore the rewards and challenges of leading a life dedicated to making a difference
- Reclaim the driver's seat of your life's journey by addressing the real reason holding you back from accomplishing your greatest life accomplishments yet
- Leave with an action plan to build a lasting legacy everyday of your life
